Speaker Crisp Puts an End to Filibustering.

Silver Men in the House Taken by Surprise.

and is Signed. Mr. Bland Declares It a Stock-Jobbing Spec-

for the Measure-The Vote in Detail. Eu Telegraph to The Tines. WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 .- (By the Associated Press. Silver purchases by the government ceased today. The purose for which President Cleveland called Congress together in extraordinary session was accomplished at 4:25 o'clock this afternoon, when he affixed his signature to the bill to repeal unconditionally the purchasing clause of the Sherman law.

Only twenty-seven men could be rallied for a last stand by the silver leaders. Their small following might have succeeded had they been led by experienced and skillful parliamentary tacticlans. Neither Representative Bryan nor Snodgrass, his lieutenant, are well versed in parliamentary procedure, and when thrown off their guard by a momentary distraction, they exposed their flank by failing to follow one filibustering motion with another.

Speaker Crisp overwhelmed them by putting the pending motion to order the previous question. It was carried with a roar. The filibusters had been caught napping, and nothing remained for them except to submit. For thirty minutes under the rule followed a rattle of oratory, amid great confusion and exlitement. At its conclusion a vote was aken on Bland's free coinage substitute. The majority against it was 73.

Then came a final vote on concurring in the senate amendments. The vote stood 193 for concurrence and 94 against. When the original bill passed the House on August 28, the vote stood 201 engrossed immediately, to 100; so, although the total vote today is smaller, the proportion is practically the same. The final vote in the House was taken at 2:50 p.m. The bill twenty minutes later, at 3:10 p.m., the formal announcement was made to the Senate that its amendment had been agreed to by the House. The bill was hurriedly enrolled, and, at 3:30 o'clock, was presented to Speaker Crisp for his signature. FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS. EXTRA SESSION.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1. - (By the Associated Press.) SENATE.—Senator Hill offered a resolution to amend the rules, and prevent endless filibustering. This was referred to the Committee on Rules. Also one by Hill to authorize the presiding officer to count a quorum present, but not voting. Senator Hoar had read a bill pro viding for an appropriation of $50,000 for relief of the sufferers by the recent storm in the Sea Islands on the coast of South Carolina. With it was a memorial, prepared by Clara Barton of the Red Cross Society.

The House resolution, for printing, instead of writing, engrossed and enrolled Congressional bills, was agreed

The bill amending the act for the exclusion of Chinese was taken up, and Senator Gray explained its provisions: Senator Hoar offered an amend-ment in the nature of a substitute, striking out all but the enacting clause. The amendment suspenus con-nese immigration pending the settle-ment of the whole question by treaty with the Chinese government, and amends the provisions of the existing law regarding registration and the trials of Chinese aliens.

Senator Davis also offered a substitute, providing for the repeal of all existing laws excluding Chinese immigration.

Senator Palmer took exception to the provisions of the bill rejecting the evidence in court of Chinese witnesses and the clause refusing bail to Chi-nese arrested under the provisions of the bill before guilt is established.

Senator Perkins of California said that California people were satisfied with the present law. It was the administration and the attorneys of Chinese who are making requests for a change. Senator Perkins said the Chi-nese now see their mistake, and, if the time for registration is extended ac cording to the provisions of the bill they might comply. The people of California and other States have doubts, however. He thought the result would be that the Chinses Six Companies and their attor-neys would ask another extension.

Senator Perkins read a letter from the Chief of Police of San Francisco, saying that of the arrests for crime except for drunkenness in San Fran-The Bill is Sent to Cleveland cisco, about 80 per cent. were from Chinese inhabitants. Not 20 per cent. of the Chinese in California had been converted to Christianity. of American money.

Senator Dolph spoke in defense of the Geary law.

At 3:55 p.m. the Clerk of the House appeared and presented the repeal bill, House in the Senate amendments. Vice-President then announced his sig-nature to the bill.

The consideration of the Chinese Exclusion Act was resumed, and Senator Squire offered an amendment, appro-priating $100,000 for the enforcement during the present fiscal year, of several acts regulating and prohibiting Chinese immigration, and addressed the Senate in advocacy thereof.

Senator Frye said the Geary law was a dishonor to the country, morally a crime and commercially a blunder. Senator Gray attempted to secure unanimous consent for a vote to the pending bill at 4 o'clock, saying the hope was expressed on the Democratic side that there could be an adjournment of Congress on the day after Senator Hoar objected, and after a brief executive session, the Senate ading declined the offer of Representa-tive Wilson to allow debate for one hour, or two or three hours, having refused to enter into any agreement whatever that did not leave the repeal bill open for general debate and amendment, M. Wilson demanded the previous question. Representative Bryan of Nebraska, on behalf of the silver men, at once moved to adjourn, and demanded a division. The motion was defeated-26 to 108.

The silver men then moved a recess until 3 p.m. This was also defeated on division. The filibustering continued, but, without a roll-call having been secured. The silver men made an ineffectual attempt in that direc-tion, but, on division, twenty-nine members demanded the yeas and nays, and were against the motion, so it lost. Thus the silver men had 185 was lost. not been even able to muster sufficient strength to secure a roll-call.

After this, they again resorted to alternate dilatory motions for adjournment and recess, and 'it seemed that the silver men could keep up filibustering indefinitely, if the resolution was not brought in

Speaker Crisp took advantage of a omentary lull to put a motion for the previous question, which was declared the carried. Representative Bryan of Ne-braska, was demanding the attention of the Speaker, but was not seen. men did not seem to know what had happened. The result was greeted with loud applause.

Representative Snodgrass of Tennessee moved to adjourn, but the Speaker said that he had recognized Mr. Wilson and the latter could not be taken off the floor.

Mr. Wilson asked Mr. Bland to consume fifteen minutes to which that side was entitled. Mr. Bland began his address, but not before Mr. Snodgrass asserted that dilatory motions would be ontinued on the other stages of proeedings before a vote could be reached on the main propositon.

Mr Bland created a sensation by declaring that the extra session and this whole legislation has been thrust upon the people as a stock-jobbing specula-

Representative Bryan of Nebraska followed Mr. Bland. When Mr. Bryan's time expired Mr. Pence of Colorado moved that he be given ten minutes ected. Mr. Wheeler of Alabama followed, exhausting the silver men's time, but Mr. Wilson yielded five minutes to Representative Springer of Illinois, the five to Mr. Livings on of Georgia and five to Mr. Reed of Maine. Mr. Reed said the country was gen-erally better off when the Democratic party was disappointed. This was a party was disappointed. This was a serious experiment which must be tried. Congress had at last done its duty, but the delay had robbed the measure of most of its good. He predicted calamity and misfortune, despite the passage of the bill, and referred to the impending hanges in the tariff as the cause. An Unprecedented Event at the Lakeside City-A Line of Citizens Passes by the Bier All Night-The Funeral Procession

By Telegraph to The Times CHICAGO, Nov. 1 .- (By the Associated Press.) With solemn pomp and imposing ceremonies befitting the interment of the chief magistrate of the World's Fair city, and his departure of the control of the chief magistrate of the chi World's Fair city and his dramatic fate, Carter H. Harrison's body was escorted to Graceland Cemetery today by an enormous throng of sorrowing citizens. All night long two lines of people passed steadily by the bier on which the remains lay in state in the City Hall corridor. The crowd gradually decreased toward morning, as those who had stood in line for hours to get a last glimpse of the familiar features passed into the flower-decked corridor, but the early comers soon lengthened lines again, and when, finally, the time arrived for beginning the cereclosed, it left a vast throng in the outside debarred of the privilege of seeing the peaceful features of the departed chief executive. How many thousand looked into the casket during the

After the door was closed, the mains, were tenderly borne from the black-draped corridor and placed in the funeral car, through a great crowd gathered to see the murdered mayor last leave-taking of the scene of his labors on behalf of the city that he loved. The black car slowly parsed and took its place in the waiting procession. As it drew into line, the march was taken up, and thousands who had gathered to honor the dead moved slowly through the crowded streets with banners draped and to the sad music of funeral marches by the bands distrib-uted at intervals through the long line Out from the center of the city the great procession marched across the river to the beautiful Church of the Epiphany, near the late executive's home. LONDON, Nov. 1.-(By Cable and Asrelated Press.) A dispatch from Fort Charter announces that several fights have taken place between the British forces and the Matabeles, in which the former were invariably victorious.

The British have captured Buluwayo, the capital of the Matabeles, and King Lobengulas's stronghold, and the latter, with the remnants of his forces, is retreating toward the Zembesi River, pursued by the British forces. No details are given as to the loss of life in the engagements.

FURTHER ADVICE. CAPE TOWN, Nov. 1.-Cecil Rhodes Premier of Cape Colony, telegraphs from Fort Charter that native runners say the Matabeles have been utterly defeated, and that King Lobengula has fled. The British columns effected juncture at Buluwayo, columns are now pursuing the fugitive

King and his followers.

Maj. Forbes had a desperate fight with Lobengula's crack Inbizo regi-ment, and half the latter were dement, and half the latter stroyed. The blacks fought with great bravery, but the machine-guns and unerring rifles of the whites were too much for them. The destruction was such that they never got within spear distance of the white columns, and finally broke in an utter rout. The loss to the chartered company's forces was light and were mainly confined to Maj. Forbes's column. The Matabeles's loss is reported to exceed three thousand killed and wounded. All Mashonaland reports confirm these stories and agree that the Matabele power is utterly broken.

One of the envoys killed by Bechuanaland police was a relative of the powerful King of one of the native States, who has consequently with-drawn into the interior and is preparing to engage in vigorous hostilities against the British Chartered Company.

The Wild Plunge of an Electric Car

Through an Open Drawbridge With Six People.

A Number of Passengers Have a Narrow Escape.

Trial of the Curtis Jury-fixers-The Piedmont Cable Company Insolvent-Steamer City of New York Still Intact.

By Telegraph to The Times.

PORTLAND, Nov. 1.-(By the Asso ciated Press.) One of the most horrible accidents in the history of the city occurred about 7 o'clock this morning An electric car from Oregon City plunged off the Madison-street bridge into the Willamette River drowning all of the occupants who fell with it, and who are thought to have been six in in number. The car contained about twenty passengers, but ten of them escaped by jumping just as the car left the bridge.

A heavy fog was prevailing at the time of the accident, and the draw of the bridge was open for the passing of the steamer Elwood. Just the car reached the edge of the draw, the conductor saw the impending dan-ger and gave the alarm. The passen gers, rushed out of the car in a con-fused mass, and it is thought all but six of them succeeded in getting off safely.

Three bodies were quickly recovered and taken to the morgue. They are Three men named Bennock, Sladter and Scott are missing. Several of the passengers received slight injuries in jumping from the car.

Motorman C. F. Terry gives the following version of the accident: "When the car came on the bridge the power was thrown off and the car approached the draw at a low rate of speed. The fog was so heavy that I was unable to see the lights at the draw. When about four spans from the draw I put on the brakes, but, owing to the slippery condition of the track, they refused to work, and I had no sand for the wheels.

work, and I had no sand for the wheels.

"When within one span of the draw I reversed the car, but the then momentum was so great that this was of no avail. Seeing that it was impossible to avert an accident I jumped, catching the railing of the bridge just as the car crashed through the wooden gate in front of the chasm."

Conductor W. C. Power states that he was standing in the front part of the car, making out his report, when he saw the impending danger. The car was then but a few feet from the gate. He shouted to the passengers to jump and a scramble followed.

The conductor states that his register of the fares paid shows eleven. This, however, is no index to the number of passengers, as many of the latter, who came from points outside the city limits, paid double fares, which were shown by the register as two fares, which were shown by the register as two fares, which were passently and the care and the consequence of the passengers as a two fares, which were shown by the register as two fares, which were shown by the passengers as many of the latter, who

In addition, there were a number of passengers riding on tickets issued by the company, which are punched by the conductor, but are not recorded. The conductor thinks that there were eighteen or twenty persons on the car, which lies at a depth of thirty feet. The conductor and motorman were placed under arrest, but were released on their own recognizance. There was only one lady passenger in the car, a Miss Thayer, who, in the scramble to get out of the car, was caught in the doorway, from whence she was extricated without serious injury. whence she was extricated without serious injury.

The average per cent. of soluble matter in a ripe peach, for instance, is 10 per cent., equal to 12.80 ounces. For peaches, therefore, there should be added to every gallon of water 12 ounces, by weight, of glycerine, or four-fifths that amount by fluid ounce measure. If the fruit be prepared before thoroughly ripe, about two-thirds of the amount of glycerine named will be sufficient.

"If bi-sulphate of soda is used, be careful to buy the pure and not the commercial article; the first is white, the second is darker in color. If the commercial article is used, then use three ounces to the gallon of water, and allow the sediment to settle.

"Mr. Lelong informs me that he prevents the fruit from cracking by using one-fourth part of alcohol.

"Unless the saccharometer is used you have to guess at the percentage of soluble matter. No rule can be laid down, exceept to remember that the juice of fruit raised on hill land, in a warm climate and unirrigated, has a greater density than that of fruit raised under opposite conditions. The average is about what is stated in former circular."

How Enterprising Iowa Girls Helped the Church and Matrimony. (Seattle Telegraph:) Down in an Iowa own, not so very far below the Minne-tota line, there is a progressive little sota line, there is a progressive little church. Some time ago it was found necessary to raise a certain amount for a certain purpose. The young ladies of the church took the matter in hand, and after going over the many ways which had been tried in times past to raise money, decided upon a new plan.

They decided upon a new plan.

They decided to let the young men of the town, who felt like doing something in the interest of the church, hold their hands for a certain length of time for a given sum—50 cents for holding a girl's hand twenty-five minutes seems to have been about the average. It is said that the plan worked to a charm, and that the coffers of the church swelled perceptibly after the hand-holding social was over.

tibly after the hand-noiding social was over.

The man who is empowered to issue marriage licenses in that town ought to do a rushing business from this time on, for it was also proposed, and this met with instant favor among the young men, o sell kisses at the average of 75 cents. It is hinted that decorous hugs were to be provided at a uniform price of $1, coin of the realm.

Last Word of Van Alen.

Chicago Herald:) A proud man would not take a mission secured as Van Alen's has been, at the expense of the reputation of the administration, and in the face of opposition based upon the most humiliating charges. Frewen Says London Has Prayed for Cessa-tion of Silver Purchases.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(By the Associated Press.) The published interview with Morton Frewen, the English view with morton Frewen, the English bimetallist, quotes him as saying: "If the price of silver bullion falls, as I ex-pect will be the case, that will drag down the exchange rates with the far East, which are already at the snapping point, and we shall have a panic in London before the new year—a panic which you will feel in every corner ping point, and we shall have a panic in London before the new year—a panic which you will feel in every corner of this continent."

"Then, you don't favor the view that the repeal of the Sherman act will bring buying orders from London to Wall street?"

"London will be the seller for a long time to come. We are in great trouble in Australia and in India; our export trade with China, Singapore and South America is already paralyzed by the fall in the rates of silver exchange. London has been praying that you will stop your silver purchases, thinking that then your stock market may recover, so that she may send you home your securities realized at higher prices. We are in no position to buy. The great English manufacturing fortunes have suffered terribly.

"When we, in England, have financial troubles, times are hard and prices are depressed so that your exports to England fall off, and, your imports remaining the same, the gold leaves fou. To borrow gold in England and bring it here inevitably turns the balance of trade against this country. It would turn it, even in the face of a great harvest; so that gold begins to flow back again on the nearest ship.

"Austria is trying to get gold and hold it in this way. Weckherle, her finance minister, is an intelligent man, but knows nothing whatever about the theory of foreign exchanges. Goschen told him, three years since, that, while Austria could borrow gold, she could never keep it, except under lock and key, but gold is already at a premium in the dual monarchy.

"Unlock the treasury doors and it will disappear at once, and you here will disappear in the pour water in a sieve."

An Overrated Town. (Detroit Free Press:) A countryman from Indiana, with $50 to spend, had gone to Chicago to see the fair, and the morning after his arrival he took an early walk along one of the finest residence streets in the city. Evidently he was uneasy in his mind about something, for when he saw a policeman he tackled him when he saw a poncernan he december at once.

"Do you live here?" he asked, innocently.

The policeman laughed and said that he did.

"I didn't know," continued the visitor, "there's so many foreigners here now that I didn't know but you was one."

The officer assured him again that he was a resident of the town.

was a resident of the town.

"I guess you can tell me what I want to know," said the Hoosler.

"What's that?"

"Well, I want to know if there ain't some mistake about what they say about this town."

"Well. I want to know if there ain't some mistake about what they say about this town."
"What do they say?"
"Everything; it's the biggest and liveliest and best-equipped place on earth. That's what they say."
"Ain't it that?" queried the officer.
"Not to my way of thinkin'."
"No! it ain't. Here I've been walkin' and walkin' fer amile or more, and I ain't seen a blacksmith shop, ner a a corner grocery, ner a livery stable, ner a tavern, ner a store, ner a postoffice, ner harroom, ner none of the things we've got down in my town, and I'm thinkin' all this spoutin' about Chicago ain't anything more than wind; that's what I'm thinkin," and the policeman organized himself into a bureau of information for the sake of the town.

TION CONGRESS.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT. On Sunday, October 15, The Times reprinted in full the proceedings of this great Columbian Exposition. the Irrigation Congress as reported and published from day to day during its sessions, gathering the whole into a single issue, convenient for reference, and in a shape suited for transmission by mail to every quarter of the globe. This special sheet, which comprises twelve pages, also contains the valuable preliminary matter upon irrigation which appeared in our issue of October 4, 1893.

The paper also contains many special advertisements describing lands and irrigation machinery for sale, and various business opportunities. Delegates, citizens, news dealers, commercial bodies and all others interested in this important matter, are requested to send in their orders without delay. Price, 5 cents per copy. Twenty copies postage paid, $1, except to newsdealers, who will be given their regular rates. Circulate the Irrigation Edition of

A Lesson From Chicago. It is no wonder that Chicago forges ahead with lightning rapidity, when it contains such enterprising men as Marshall Field, George M. Pullman and others of that stamp. These men and several others were sitting in the parlor of a Chicago club the other day, when incidentally remarked that he would give $1,000,000 toward a fund to secure for Chicago a Columbian museum, on condition that an additional sum of $500,000 be raised, and that $2,000,000 worth of exhibition stock be contributed, toward which Mr. Field will give $100,000 worth of stock which was issued in his name. Mr. Pullman agreed at once to put up $200,000 toward the same object, and the enterprise is now considered to be fully assured. The Palace of Fine Arts at Jackson Park will be made the permanent home of the museum. Such men would build up a city anywhere, even under the most adverse circumstances It is not locations but men by which the fate of cities is decided. The site of Chicago was one of the most unpromis ing upon which a great city was ever built, but with such men as these to push it forward there is no doubt that it will one day become the largest city in the United States, if not in the

Some of our wealthy Los Angeles citizens might take example from these public-spirited men of Chicago. The location and surroundings of Los Angeles are such as to justify us in expecting that it will, ere long, become the Chicago of the Southwest. But, as we have stated, location does not alone make a great city. Whether Los Angeles is to fulfill its manifest destiny, or how soon that destiny is to be fulfilled, depends entirely on the enterprise and liberality which are displayed by its citizens. There are cities in the United States possessed of everything that could be wished in the way of loand surroundings, which have made little or no progress, because the citizens have relied too much upon the advantage which nature has given them, supposed that the world mus come to them, and have sat down to await its coming. Meantime other communities, far less favored by nature, work with a will, offering inducements to railroads, manufactures and other enterprises, with the result that they have forged ahead and become large cities, whle their less enterprising competitors are still sitting down, waiting, like Micawber, for "something to turn up."

There are few cities in the United States whose destiny is more clearly outlined by the finger of fate on the pages of the future than Los Angeles. But whether our progress toward that upon those of our citizens who have it in their power to make the "wheels go 'round.'

Farmers and the Fair.

One feature of the great exposition which has just closed at Chicago, and which distinguished it from the world's fairs heretofore held in other countries, was the large attendance of the farm ers of the country. It was a gran school for them, and they were not slow to embrace the opportunities which it offered to study the results and the methods applied to modern agriculture, and familiarize themselves with the products of different sections of their own country and of other lands. Through what they saw at this greatest of world expositions their ideas of agriculture will be broadened and en-Farm life will be elevated and the farmer at large will appreciat as never before the helps to be derived farming from scientific knowledge The time has passed when the farmer's life was one of plodding drudgery, for inventive genius and scientific knowledge have done as much for the farmers as a class as for any body of men in com urally be excited among agriculturists which characterized the exhibits at the great fair at Chicago. Fresh ex-

Postal Savings Banks.

The Times has several times referred to the question of postal savings banks The demand for them has become much greater during the past six months, since the people have learned to appreclate the advantages of a repository for money that is absolutely safe. The opening which exists for such a system was brought to light in a striking manner during the recent panic, when it was found that in many large cities the amount of money orders issued by the postoffices was greatly in excess of the nominal figures. This, on investigation, was found to be because many had given their money to the United States, simply for safe-keeping, and had received in return money orders made payable to themselves at different offices. It is also said to be a habit among many commercial travelers to rid themselves in this way, for the time being, of superflous cash.

Here is a case where the Government not only pays no interest upon money received, but, on the contrary, charges fee, and yet people will dispose of their money in this manner rather than to put it in a regular savings bank which will pay them 5 per cent. It is suggested that it would not be a difcult thing to transform our postoffice money orders into interest-bearing savings certificates, or an entirely separate system might be introduced, like the postal savings banks of England and other European countries.

The agricultural press of the country has devoted much attention to this question of postal savings banks. recent issue the American Cultivator savs:

"The excellent results that have lowed the establishment of postal sav-ings banks in other countries is suffi-cient proof that similar institutions, or means for accomplishing the same ends, means for accomplishing the same ends, in our own country, would prove equally as successful. As an incentive to the saving of small amounts they are much more effective than our savings banks, which, in their own particular field, are unexcelled. There is not only room, but a demand for both. "That the savings banks have but little to fear from the postal institutions of the kind we have mentioned is proved by the course of events in the United Kingdom, where the deposits in the private savings banks have increased since 1861, the year in which the government added a savings department to its postoffice, from about $200,000,000 to about $200,000,000 in 1891. This is not a large increase in the ag-

$200,000,000 to about $220,000,000 in 1891. This is not a large increase in the aggregate, but as there are only half as many private banks as formerly, the individual increases must average over 100 per cent. At the same time the mission of the postal banks is shown by the amount of morey, received for the greater part in mere driblets from working people, which the institutions held in trust in 1891, a sum equal to about $358,000,000.

Deserted Mining Camps.

In a recent letter to The Times, from Pucson, it was mentioned that the population of Quijotoa now consists of one watchman at the mill. This is the mining town to which there was such a rush about ten years ago. Another mining town in Arizona, which was once a populous place-Pinal,where the Silver King mill was located, is also now inhabited by one watchman. There is, perhaps, nothing so melancholy in this country as a de serted mining camp. It is a graveyard of buried hopes and aspirations. Such towns, some of them containing large brick blocks, are scattered through the Rocky Mountain regions. The lesson to be learned from this is. that it is not judicious to invest too heavily in permanent improvements in a mining camp. Even the best and most promising of them have their day, as, for instance, Virginia City, which was the greatest mining town that United States has ever seen. Mining s a valuable branch of industry on this Coast, and has added millions of dollars to the wealth of the country, but it takes such industries as commerce, agriculture and manufacturing to build up permanent cities

The Old Soldiers are Dying Out.

Those anxious individuals, who are continually expressing the fear that the nation will be bankrupted by the pensions which are paid to old soldiers, may be relieved to learn that for the first time in thirty years the list of pensions shows a decrease. The new issues, from whatever source, do not equal in number or amount of pension those that drop off in death, by remarriage of soldiers' widows, and by the minor children reaching adult age, when their pension ceases.

A statement prepared by the Pension Office July 1, 1893, showed 966,012 pensioners on the rolls. This was highwater mark. On September 1, two was 964,398, a decrease for the two months of 1614. It is is expected that this decrease will be greater as the months roll by. It is expected that 40,000 new names will be put on the rolls, but 50,000, and possibly more, will cease to raise the complaint that they are in old age a burden to the nation they saved.

That Status Ouo. The remarkable French reception to the Russians is scarcely over when we receive the stereotyped report from Europe that grave fears exist in regard to the peace of that continent, which, we are told, is once more threatened with a rupture. It is now more than twenty years since the Franco-German that time scarcely a month has elapsed some prophecy of impending warfare between two or more of the great powers. We do not know how it is in Europe, but newspaper readers on this side of the Atlantic are becoming very tired of reading about the entente cordiale, the status quo, the Dreibund, and all the other paraphernalia which form the background to the great European comedy-a comedy that would be far more amusing did it not so frequently result in such immense sacrifices of life. In any case, it would be a relief if the European powers would do something definite instead of always making faces at each other. The next general Euro pean war is likely to make several additions to the list of European repub-

One of the most amusing features in connection with the women's move-ment for purity of the press which is now occupying considerable space in the columns of our esteemed San Francisco contemporaries is the eagerness movement a full showing in their col-They are evidently afraid that unless they do this the other papers will have them at a disadvantage and point to them as the bad boys whom the good ladies of Oakland and pickle. It is quite a funny business all around, but will serve to fill up a good many yawning columns until the next sensational abortion case comes to the front, when the San Francisco papers will doubtless tumble over each other ers with full and detailed accounts, accompanied by drawings, plans and specifications, while the indignant lady reformers will have to keep one eye closed while they hunt through the papers for a society scandal that a blushing. It has been the boast of Californian that better wages have been paid in State than in almost any State in the Union. The starvation vages of the Eastern sweater factories have hitherto been unknown in Cali fornia, but it appears that this unpleasant feature of Eastern living is now coming. A number of women, some of them mothers of familles, have been working ten hours a day in a San Francisco factory for sums ranging from 28 cents to 40 cents, and out of which at least 5 cents, the cost of material used, is taken. The fact that American women are forced to do a long day's labor for such a pittance in the Golden State of this great and vealthy country, is a deplorable evidence of the rapidity with which are approaching the level of the Euro pean labor market, and emphasize necessity for a restriction of trans-

One of the first effects of the repeal of the silver purchase bill was to send the price of silver down to the unprecedented figure of 68 cents an ounce. This is little more than half price, which is $1.29. It is not to be supposed for a moment that the people will consent to the degrading of silver by removing it from its position as a money metal. If those advocates of the single standard who were so urgent for an immediate repeal of the purchase bill imagine that such will be the result they are very much mistaken. The table now being cleared, the country is now ready for such wise legislation as will do justice to both metals, and give the people an honest circulating rise to any questions as to the relative dollar, whether it be made of gold, of silver or of paper. Nothing than this will satisfy the people, for our part we do not believe that they should be content with less.

The position of the Spaniards in Morocco appears to be like that of the man who captured a bear and couldn't let go of him. The Spanish forts are reatened by very large swarms natives, who have assumed the offensive and thrown up earthworks around the forts. These Moors are born fighters, and have a perfect contempt of death, believing that the follower of Mohammed who dies while fighting the dogs of Christians will go straight to Paradise by a short cut, and will be allowed several extra women of unusual beauty when he gets there. With such inducements held out to them it is no wonder that these fanatics are ready to rush against bayonets and cannon re gardless of danger. Spaniards who fall into the hands of the Moors will be horrible. When it comes to ingenious modes of torture. people can give the Apaches several points.

A second interview with Hon. Joseph Medill, printed this morning, is even more interesting and "meaty" than the first. It treats further of the political methods and career of the late Carter H. Harrison, and gives an analysis of his character, based upon a forty years' acquaintance. On the whole, Mr. Medill's estimate is goodtempered and friendly. The interview contains a fund of interesting information about a unique, striking and picturesque character.

What is to be the permanent economic system of this country? That is the leading question which the American people are waiting to have answered. It is the question which, since last November, has disturbed our industries brought hesitation and uncertainty into the ranks of capital. It is the uppermost question in the minds of manu facturers and business men, and until this tariff legislation is settled, and the question of protection or free trade is fully determined, capital will hold back and the industries of the country will not regain their former activity and prosperity. The "American system," as t was called by Henry Clay, cannot be destroyed without a great shock to the material interests of the United States

The more intelligent sentiment of the South is not anxious overmuch for the tariff slaughter to begin. The Kanawha (W. Va.) CARTER H. HARRISON

His Public and Private Character

As Analyzed by Editor Joseph Medill of Chicago.

A Man of Enormous Egotism and Vaulting Ambition.

His Tenacity of Purpose, Ceaseless Industry and Bonhomle-A Good-tempered Estimate Based on a Forty Years' Acquaintance

A further interview by The Times with Mr. Medill has developed the following yery interesting and somewhat critical analysis of the character of the late Carter H. Harrison. The reporter 'What is your estimate of the character, public and private, of the late Mayor Harrison?" RECOLLECTIONS OF FORTY YEARS.

"My acquaintance with him extended over a period of nearly forty years. He arrived in Chicago a few months after I did. He came from the blue grass region of Kentucky, a young, vig-orous, hearty, rosy-cheeked man, as I remember him, fond of riding horseback in the city, and wearing a Southern soft slouch hat. He engaged in real estate. He brought some money with him from Kentucky, and entered upon the purchase of acre property in the suburbs, which afterward, by hold-ing it, made him very wealthy, as the city extended all over his acre property, which he cut up into lots and either sold at good prices or built houses them, which the estate has today. them, which the estate has touny.
"The city then contained but 50,000 inhabitants, being hardly two-thirds of the present population of Los Angeles, and possessed enormously less beauty and evidences of civilization, and facilities of communication and comfort; yet, even then, it was an active, stirring, pushing place, and, though very crude, gave many indications of its future growth. Harrison was frequently heard prophesying, back in the 'fifties' that before the end of this century Chicago would surpass Cincinnati and St. Louis and exceed half a million of inhabitants; and he confidently expected to live to see it. He did live to behold three times that population seven years be-fore the termination of the century, fore the termination of the century, and ruled, as Mayor, over a city three times the size of St. Louis and four times that of Cincinnati.

"He was a shrewd, able man in business matters, and committed but few crrors of judgment in his financial dealings. He left an estate worth between one and two millions, and enjoyed an income from his investments of probably $100,000 a year. He spent a good deal of money in acts of benevolence and in assisting partisan friends, though he seldom signed notes as security for people. He told me that when he did he generally had to pay the note, and always it made an enmy of the man he befriended.

"In early life he was a Henry Clay Whig, and so continued till the disso-

Whig, and so continued till the disso-lution of that party, in 1854, when he joined the Democrats, though he never subscribed to their free-trade doctrines,

"He gave me, as a reason for turning Democrat, and voting against Fremont Lincoln, Grant and others, that 'he believed in State sovereignty, and was alled national sovereignty. I nim how he could be a consistent nan during the rebellion war states were sovereign, and, man during the rebellion war if the States were sovereign, and, consequently, had the right to secede, as chis doctrine it was unconstitutional to coerce sovereigns back into the Union. He avoided the point of the question, and replied that if the Abolition Republican party had not assailed the Southern slavery institution and elected Lincoln on the issue that a 'house divided against itself cannot stand,' and that the Union must be all one thing or the other on slavery, the South would not have seceded, and there would have been no civil war.

"I called him a Calhoun-Jeff Davis disunion man, and he retorted that I man, and he retorted the 'Hamiltonian-Abe Lincoln was a 'Hamiltonian-Abe Lincoln centralizationist.' The fact was that Mr. Harrison was reared in a slave-holding family, and in a 'peculiar institution' community, and the virus of slavery was in his blood. He had his strong sympathies for the slaveholding South in spite of his Union sentiments. Few men are superior to their environments in their ideas, sentiments and prejudices.

"I observed that during the war period Harrison was considered one of the active Democratic ward politicans, and, while professing to be a Union man, was a pretty bitter Democrat. That is my recollection of him, and he sprang into notoriety immediately after the great fire of 1871, when he took an active part in the work of restoration. He was elected a member of the County Board. He made himself useful as well as conspicuous in that trying period of the city's history. He served four years in Congress between that period and his first election to the mayoralty. Previous to the fire I only remember him as an active citizen in private life, engaged in real estate, building houses, dividing up lands into lots, and making pleasant and rather happy speeches on public occasions and banquets. What struck me about Harrison, personally, was, first, a wonderfully fine physique. He was one of the most perfect physical samples of a man that I ever saw. He seemed to be a man that had never known an hour's lilness. He had enormous activity. He was a stranger to fatigue. He was a stranger to fatigue, He was a stranger to fatigue, he came down very readily, and did not seem to be a man who carried anger or malice any-distance. He would receive a blow and strike back a hard one, but he was observed that during the war peany distance. He would receive a blow and strike back a hard one, but he was willing to more than meet an opponent half way and shake hands and make friends. While he and I had many a stiff partisan battle, we always retained our personal friendships. There was no time when we could not meet socially on good terms during our nearly forty

"You ask me what was the most prom-inent trait of Harrison's character? As "You ask me what was the most prominent trait of Harrison's character? As it seemed to me, it was his boundless ambition and colossal egotism. In almost all conversations and speeches that he probably ever made the ego was manifest, and he made himself the center of all his conversations with anybody and on every subject; and yet, it was done in a way that seemed to be unconsclous and not unpleasant; and while I have heard him hundreds of times extol himself, or what would seem, in another, like extolling himself, I have never felt offended at it, and never heard that anybody was offended at it. His friends all noticed it; they would laugh or smile about it, and called it "Carter-Harrisonia," but it offended nobody, and insulted nobody, nor made any one envious or angry, and yet it was always present and never hidden. He never pretended to be humble or modest, never held himself in the fear or in the shade.

COLOSSAL EGOTISM.

It was always big I—'Big Injun Me'—and yet it was not offensively done.

HOW HE BELIEVED IN "ME." "Harrison considered himself, at least from the time of his second election as Mayor, and after he had spent a term or two in Congress, capable of holding any public position in the gift of the American people which they might be induced to confer upon him. He regarded himself as amply capable for the governorship or the presidency. He ran for Governor the same year that Blaine ran for President. He stumped the State thoroughly and vigorously against the most popular man we had in Illinois at the time, Gen. Oglesby, and actually cut down Oglesby's majority 12,000 in a bitterly-conducted gubernatorial campaign. Mayor, and after he had spent a term terly-conducted gubernatorial can paign.

"The most of the gain, however, was in the city of Chicago. Most of Harrison's success, I think, in life turned on this very egotism which I have referred to, his boundless faith in himself. He was a courageous man, I think morally and physically courageous.

HE RAN WITH "THE GANG."

"While he catered, as it was thought, by a great many people, altogether too much to the evil elements of society and didn't hold a hard enough rein on those disposed to violate the law and the city ordinances, at the same time he braved the displeasure of the moral and respectable classes. He defied them, and justified and defended his course. Much of his defense consisted of saying that it was impossible to make men moral by law, or even seemingly so, if they didn't want to be, as that was the business of the preachers, and that it was useless to attempt to try to stop public gambling, places of evil resort, confidence games and the swinding of people that would be going on. He justified himself by saying that these things could not be done by ordinance, and it was only the hypocritical classes that claimed that they could be done.

THE DELUDED MASSES. 'While he catered, as it was thought.

THE DELUDED MASSES. "What has been the condition of the laboring classes of Chicago under Harrison's several administrations, as compared with their condition under the administrations of other mayors? Have they ever received any practical benefits from his election?"

fits from his election?"

"None whatever. They were flattered, pleased and wheedled by being coddled, but no industrial good ever came to them from Harrison's election; the only result was the redistribution of the offices and the putting of the municipal machinery into the hands of Harrison's supporters."

"To what extent is that class composed of allens?"

"It is nearly all composed of foreign.

posed of allens?"
"It is nearly all composed of foreigners, naturalized and unnaturalized, including very few Americans or people who sympathized with the American public in those things. Unfortunately, you can say the majority of the voters of the city are not to the manor born; the native Americans are in the minority.

A STALWART.

"Among the striking characteristics of Harrison were, I would say, courage, persistence and audacity. He was as persistence and audacity. He was as tenacious of purpose as a bulldog, and never would let go. He would accomplish his end or know the reason why he couldn't. His fine health and physical strength enabled him to incurfatigue without damage to himself. He would make a political campaign that would kill any common man and comeout of it apparently as hearty and well as when he went in.

A MAGNETIC MAN, AS THE TERM

A MAGNETIC MAN, AS THE TERM GOES. "He made friends among strangers "He made friends among strangers very rapidly. He had a wonderful faculty of impressing himself on people and attaching people to him at first sight; and I suppose he might betermed a magnetic man in the political sense of that term, and fairly entitled to that credit. I have heard some charge him with not being true to his friends, but I think as politics go, that the charge was hardly a fair one. My observation was that he stood by those who stood by him, and exchanged the favors that it was in his power to grant.

"He became quite offended with Mr. Cleveland. He thought the President treated him badly after his first election. Harrison always claimed that he as delegate to the National Convention was largely influential in securin Cleveland's nomination, and that Cleve securing land requited him ungratefully never gave him credit for the important and essential work that he had accomplished for him; that he received no official recognition at his hands, and no thanks, and he was very sore and never hesitated to tell people about it he poured into my listening ears the 'tale of wee' two or three times, but still he didn't exhibit revengful feelings. While he spoke bitterly, he did not speak threateningly.

SENATORIAL HOPES. "Harrison expected confidently to be the successor of Shelby M. Cullom in the United States Senate after 1894. His belief was that the Democrats would carry the Legislature next year at the election, as they have an enormous advantage in the apportionment of members of the Legislature under the recent Democratic gerrymander made for such purpose—made to secure a Senatorship in a Republican State—and Harrison had no doubt whatever that he would secure the election of Senator. I asked him the pointed question at my last interview with him, two days before I left Chicago, whether he expected to defeat Goy. Altgeld, who is also a known candidate for the same "Harrison expected confidently to be is also a known candidate for the sam office. He answered me in this way 'It's too far ahead to speculate upon but Altgeld ought not to be a candidate His gubernatorial term will have only half expired when the Senatorial election takes place, whereas my mayoralty will have expired and I will again be will have expired and I will again be a private citizen. 'Well, then,' I said, 'you think that Altgeld ought to remain in and fill out his term?' He replied: 'I do.' 'Well, then,' I said, 'you intend after you get through with the hard labors of this office to take a long and quiet vacation in the 'House of Lords,'' I suppose, for six years?' Well,' he said, 'It is a quiet place. It's not hard to fill nowadays, (emphasizing the 'nowadays,') phasizing the 'nowadays.') HIS BROKEN-OFF MARRIAGE.

"I said, 'It will be a very pleasant place for that young wife of yours to spend your winters in Washington.' And I added: 'By the way, Harrison, when are you going to be married? Oh,' he says, 'in ten days, and I am go ng to send you cards, and I am sorry

'Oh,' he says, 'in ten days, and I am going to send you cards, and I am sorry you won't be present at my wedding,' 'Well.' I said, 'I will drink a glass of champagne to the happy occasion if you will tell me at about what hour in the day it will come off.' So he mentioned the time. I said, 'Where are you going to spend your honeymoon?' and he said, 'Oh, I suppose at home'—at his residence on Ashland avenue.
"I said, 'You had better come over to Los Angeles and bring your young wife along and spend your honeymoon. You have a great many friends over there and you will be nicely treated. The lady will be greatly pleased at the reception she will meet, I am quite sure.' 'Well,' he says, 'I will speak to her about it.' And I think he said he suspected she would want to go to Washington later oh. He said he couldn't leave the city answay, he thought, much before the holidays. I said, 'You had better bring her to the land of roses and posies and good health.' (She had not been very well.) 'It is a long journey,' says he, 'but I will talk to her about it.'

THE ULTIMATE POLITICAL DISEASE.

about it.'
THE ULTIMATE POLITICAL DISEASE. "I then said to Harrison jocularly, just before he left me: 'You will get tired of the Senatorship, Harrison. Cleveland is in his last term; he will never be a candidate again. There are no other great, popular, overshadowing personages in the Democratic party now in sight above the horizon, and you may be tempted to be a candidate in 1896. 'Well,' says he—making a long 'well'—'that's too far ahead to speculate upon. We will not talk about that; it's too far ahead.' He didn't say no; he didn't repel me.

"When I congratulated him upon his good health after the wear and tear of a six months' campaign, discharging the double duties of World's Fair Commissioner and the duties of the mayoralty, he said, stretching his arm out, 'Well. I am in first-rate health, and I feel that I have a dozen years of good work in me yet.'

SUMMING UP.

"Taking Carter Harrison all around,

"Taking Carter Harrison all around, in every respect, I think he was the most remarkable man—and I believe that will be the popular verdict our city has ever produced. H the most individuality, and has pied the largest place in the pied the largest place in the public eye and mind for the last twenty years. We have had a good many strong men, I know, but no one equa to him; and among all the ever produced in the United there never was a man equal to him in idiosyncrasies, in eccentricities, and in power over the masses, at the same time maintaining a strong personal popularity across party lines. The popularity across party lines. The people liked him. While they disliked his actions in a good many respects, and thought that he hadn't enough conscience—that high moral motives in him were too feeble—at the same time, while they regretted it, they liked Harrison. He was a man you couldn't very well dislike it, they liked Harrison. He was a man you couldn't very well dislike. You might meet him in anger, and he would turn away your wrath, and you would be friends after a ten minutes talk.

HARRISON'S PRIDE OF FAMILY.

"And then his pride of family was another of his peculiarities. To hundreds and hundreds of his friends and acquaintances he made it understood that he belonged to one of the great historic families in the United States; that there ran in his veins the purest and most patriotic crimson fluid; that the Harrisons of whom he was a descendant had furnished two Presidents that the world was not ashamed of; that the Harrisons had furnished several governors—governors in Virginia in old colonial times, and governors in Ohio; that a Harrison had signed the Declaration of Independence—either a grandfather or a granduncle of his, I have forgotten which he said—and fought in the revolution; that the whole Harrison blood were patriots and Americans to the core; that they were all a big-brained family and men of high purposes, many of them scholars, and none of them knaves or fools; that there wasn't a spot on the escutcheons of any of them; that his family tree, he thought, was the largest and finest family tree in the United States, not even excepting the Adams tree, and he said they would 'size up' with any family that came over either on the Mayflower or any other ship." HARRISON'S PRIDE OF FAMILY.

Note from Mr. Medill.

LOS ANGELES (Cal.,) Nov. 1.-(Te the Editor of The Times.) I wish to correct a slip of the tongue in my reported interview in this morning's Times. The error consists in saying that Carter Harrison held no office after that of County Commissioner (ending in 1874) until his election for Mayor, in 1879.
What I meant was no local office, for,
as a matter of fact, he had been elected twice to Congress thereafter, and was defeated for a third term in his district, consisting of West Chicago, in 1878, by Col. George R. Davis, the able director-general of the World's Fair. 'It was a hot and exciting contest, but Davis won by a handsome majority.
The next year Harrison ran for Mayor, against Wright, and was elected, as stated in the interview. It was during his second term in Congress that he delivered his famous impromptu speech, in support of a liberal appropriation for the Marine Band, and in which he so highly eulogized the American bird of freedom that it gave him the sobriquet of "Spread Eagle Harrison"—a nickname of which he always seemed proud. Respectfully yours,

On the 1st inst., another telegram was received giving notice that the rate would be restored on the 10th, as soon as it was possible under the law. It is not known positively what occasioned the brief season of cheap beer rates, but it is suspected that the Burlington action secured a large shipment from a Milwaukee or St. Louis brewery for the Midwinter Fair at San Fransisco. SANTA ANA IS DEAD.

he Great Race Mare Succumbs to Lung Pever. (San Francisco Chronicle, Monday:) Santa Ana is dead. She was the pride of the Santa Anita string, and every boy connected with the stable loved the daughter of Grinstead and Clara D. for her gameness and unflinching courage in a hard race. Several of the youngsters shed tears when told that She made a game struggle, to the enn, but the odds were all against the noble mare. At 1:30 o'clock yesterday of the noble mare. At 1:30 o'clock yesterday of the noble mare. At 1:30 o'clock yesterday of the success of a game and was suffering such agony that it was decided to end her suffering. Santa Ana was valued at $15,000. She carried the Maltese cross to victory no less than twenty-five times against some of the best horses in the country. She was game to the core, and was one of the most consistent performers that ever faced a starter. As a three-year-old filly that ever succeeded in beating La Tosca. in beating La Tosca. At Garfield Park, the dead mare beat the now mighty Rudolph in a three-quarter-mile race, in 1:144.

At Saratoga, Badge, with only 104 pounds up, beat Santa Ana a nose in a one-and-a-quarter-mile race, in 2:07, which was the best race ever run over the track at that distance. Santa Ana won a mile dash at Hawthorne with 124 pounds up in the fast time of 1:41½, which is the best time ever made over the track. At Washington Park, Poet Scout, early this spring, beat Santa Ana a head in a mile dash, in 1:40½. Two days afterward, she beat Aloha, Michael and other good ones a mile in 1:40½. She also holds 'the Latonia track record of 1:14 for three-quarters of a mile. It will be seen that Santa Ana was no ordinary mare.

Willis Duff, a young lad, has taken care of Santa Ana for three years, and it broke his heart to lose her. In seven days the boy has only slept fifteen hours. He stayed up every night with Santa Ana, and refused to let any of the other boys give his pet the medicine or put on the hot blankets every half hour for fear they would not be careful enough and might jeopardize her chances of recovery. But, despite Duff's faithfulness, his favorite could not be saved, and gloom pervaded the whole stable from Dow Williams down to the smallest exercise boy the balance of the afternoon.

of the week at Music Hall, and between intervals of music, comedy and dancing, the various booths seem to be winning good patronage.

The confectionery booth is one of the prettiest, latticed with strung popcorn and decorated in yellow. The apron booth is in white and green; the fancywork booth is ornamented with gilded and bronzed magnolia leaves. The Times souvenir spoon is one of the drawing features here. Chances to win it are selling at 10 cents each. A handsome nickle-plated coffee boiler, worth $16, donated by Harper & Reynolds, is another important feature. A pair of gold-bowed glasses are being voted to the most popular lady over 45 years of age.

The ice-cream booth is presided over by army nurses. At the tamale booth, hot tamales, sandwiches and coffee are served, among decorations of peppers and corn. The canned-fruit booth sup-plies pure home preparations of choice fruit in glass, and the booth is showly trimmed with fresh-fruits and natural

Mr. Astor Making Himself Unpopular. (London Graphic:) Mr. Astor, who has recently bought Cliveden from the Duke of Westminster, does not seem to be inaugurating his riegn there with measures that will be popular. The Duke has always permitted the public to land on the Cliveden bank above Maldenhead, and to do pretty much what it pleased there so long as no injury was done to the trees. Mr. Astor has withdrawn this permission. Besides this, the little cottage opposite Formosa, where thousands of Thames trippers have had tea and light refreshments, is no longer to be used for the purpose. When the great Thames public gets to hear of these things there will most certainly be an outery that must startle even the American millionaire, Mr. Astor. Mr. Astor Making Himself Unpopular

THE UNEMPLOYED.

Another Small Army Leaves Sar Francisco for the South.

An Exciting Scene at the Ferry Landing-Threats Made to Capture the Steamer and Burn the Wharf.

The San Francisco Chroniele of Tuesday says:

"Three hundred of the unemployed left the city at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The steamer Alameda of the Southern Pacific Company's creek-route ferry took them across the bay.

"Their ultimate destination is given as New Orleans, where the men ex-press a hope that they may secure temporary employment, at least, on the cotton and sugar plantations and on the levees which are being built.

"These 300 men have been in the city from one to three weeks. Being unable to secure employment, they assembled with hundreds of others, on the sandlot at Mission and Seventh streets. As the crowd of idle men increased, some-thing had to be done, so 300 banded themslves together to make a move. "An American flag was procured, and George Jensen, one of the number, was elected standard-bearer. Then Adolph Hein, a young German of considerable intelligence, was elected captain. All intelligence, was elected captain. All the portable supplies which could be se-cured from sympathetic tradespeople were got together, and the small army made a start for Fourth and Townmade a start for Fourth and Townsend streets to get permission to cross the bay and ride on freight trains. "Capt. Hein and staff were granted an audience by Superintendent Filmore at 'the company's office. They were referred to Superintendent White at the Market-street ferries. Then the small army moved on to the creek-route ferry.

and are going to New Orleans, where we hope to find work in the plantations and on the levees."

"I have no orders to grant you transportation,' answered Mr. White.

"We cannot swim the bay, and we are going on the ferry,' said Hein, determinedly 'Once across on the other side, we are sure of a ride on a freight train, at least. There is nothing for us to do in the city. Every channel of employment is overcrowded, and we have got to make a move or starve.'

"I guess you had better pay your way across the bay,' said Mr. White. 'Out of so many men there must be a few dollars in the crowd."

"Well,' said Hein, with some disgust, as he looked at the sleek and well-fed railroad agent, 'if some of the boys have a couple of dollars put away, I admire them for it."

"The crowd outside heard that they had been refused passage to Oakland, and they began to get mad. Nearly all were young men, ranging in age from 16 to 30 years. Some had good faces, while others had hard-drawn lines. All were determined, however, and threats of taking the steamer, tearing down the ferry building and burning, the wharf were heard.

"Capt. Dunlevy of the harbor police at this juncture arrived. It did not take him long to settle matters. Going to the telephone, he called up Chief Crowley and informed him that 300 of the unemployed, wanted to leave the city. The answer came to arrange the matter, so Capt. Colville of the Alameda took the small army to Oakland at 5 o'clock.

"San Francisco is the worst place an unemployed man can come to now, said one of the army. 'We were better off East, and will be glad to get back there as soon as we can.'"

USUALLY merchants are liberal-minded; they come in contact with so many different natures they must be pliable and fair. A merchant who cares for his reputation never quibbles over trifles; better lose a little than make enemies to the business. Exaction is not business policy well defined. Men in business are not hunting quarrels; they would rather go round a block to avoid unjust criticisms, yet there are times when a business man must put on a bold front and withstand assaults and stand for his honor and his rights. We believe it is right and good business policy to close our place of business every night in the week-that is an affair of our own. If another business man thinks he should keep open every night in the week we are not disposed to argue the question with him —that is his right. We know from actual experience it has helped our employees by closing every night in the week, and what helps employees aids business. We believe in refunding money on unsatisfactory purchases, and when goods are returned in a good, merchantable condition there is no quibble; when goods are returned in bad order by being worn we never take them back. The plainer a statement is made the less liable for unjust claims and criticisms; this has been the means of placing our Cloak Department far in advance of all others-absolutely truthful statement. Money refunded on unsatisfactory purchases, no urging of sales, large and ample stocks of medium-priced, saleable goods. Here is good treat-ment, here is square dealing. We cut, fit and baste capes free for all who buy their material here. When you consider that we have cut, fit and basted nearly 1000 capes since last spring you can readily see the department has been very successful. Yesterday we received an entire new line of Broadcloths at $1.25, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, and two shades, tan and black, are royal qualities at $4 a yard. When we cut, fit and baste a cape it will fit you perfectly; if it don't fit you don't take it. We cut our capes fuller in the skirt than ready-made capes, and we sell them for yery much less money. Another lot of Table Linens, Towels, Napkins, Tea and Tray Cloths, and a few sets of fine Hemstitched Cloths and Napkins to match in all sizes. Another new lot of the real Barnsley linens in elegant patterns, 72 inches wide, and full three-quarter napkins to match. Full size, extra quality White Marseilles Quilts for $1.50; a nice line of extra quality, three-quarter size, for $1. Blanket bargains, $1, $1.50, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, equal in every respect to any goods at 50 per cent. more money. A very fortunate late purchase enables us to undersell on blankets. AGAIN KNOCKED OUT

Vanderbeck Throws Up the Sponge.

No More Professional Baseball for This Season.

Why the Venture Could Not Be Made a Success.

The Team Will Go North Under the Management of Umpire McDonald-Some Interesting Correspon-

Baseball is again knocked out in Los Angeles, and the baseballists have departed. Manager Vanderbeck yes-terday disbanded the team, and, with exception of Glenalvin, who headed for Chicago, the boys left for Sacramento under the guidance of Umpire McDonald. They will winter at the Capital City, and during their hibernawill cross bats with the Bostons, San Franciscos and Oaklands. Traveling expenses will be reduced to a minimum, and in this way the boys, who are working on the co-operative plan, hope to pull out even until the professional season again begins in the East.

Umpire McDonald will take Glenalvin's place at second, and will manage the team. As he is an adept in both these positions, there is little doubt that this city's "lost opportunities" will give a good account of themselves at Sacramento. This condition of things was all brought about by ple from Athletic Park during the Oakland series last week. Had the boxoffice shown $300 more receipts, this melancholy departure would not have melancholy departure would not have taken place. As it was, the entire gate-money for the five games left the two clubs about $100 "in the hole."

Manager Gilbert, of the San Franciscos, and the lessee of the Haight-street grounds, has been quite solicitous about the success or failure of Vanderbeck's latest venture. He has been in constant communication with the "Count" as to the future prospects, etc., and when an Associated Press dispatch was sent North from here, with all the dignity due a happening of great magnitude, that the gate receipts had been attached on the first day for the enormous sum of $13.34, Manager Gilbert naturally wrote to Manager Vanderbeck, and asked what it was all about. Manager Vander-beck yesterday answered this momentous question, and at the same time pronounced the death-knell of baseball in Los Angeles. In the course of his letter, which he graciously permits the recipient to make public, Manager Vanderbeck perpetrates this epitaph:

"Baseball is dead here now for a itagh:

"Baseball is dead here now for a "Baseball is dead here now for a long time, brought on by a number of causes, the methods of the Los Angeles at heletic Club and the Electric railway being the principal ones in placing it this way." In this same letter Manager Vanderbeck recalls the little half-hour imbrogilio, which retarded the opening of his first game and sent many disgusted fans homeward. He mentions the little item of 3460 due for back rent from his expurgated predecessor, with "hippodromic" Always open. Tel. 61.

tendencies, and the attempt to squeeze this small amount of loose change from himself on the opening-day. "This placed a damper on the sport from the start," continues Manager Vanderbeck, "and then this same combination owed bills to good patrons of the national game, who were disgusted."

Manager Vanderbeck is quite discreet in his letter, and, while he does not mention names, it is quite well understood that by the "combination" he refers to those who owe and those who want that $460, and that the "good patrons" referred to include such persons as the Tufts people, John Brink and others, heretofore enthusiastic "fans." Manager Vanderbeck concludes his "tale of woe" by reciting how a claim of $5, for advertising, against him, was magnified to $13.34, and that by paying the larger amount he not only obtained a receipt in full, but also the enmity of the claimant. Manager Vanderbeck then delivers himself of this peroration:

"I regret very much it has turned out this way. I must say it surprised me more than any one, as I was really enthused over the outlook. Sincerely yours,

G. A. VANDERBECK."

So the die was cast. Manager Vanderbeck is negotiating with the Western National League, which is now forming. The cities of Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Indianapolis and Toledo are already decided on, and Omaha, Columbus, O., and Detroit are held open. Manager Vanderbeck has been offered the Columbus or Detroit franchise, and may accept the latter. If he does so, his immediate presence in the East will be required, and, for that reason, he disbanded his present team, and, according to a telegraphic suggestion from Manager Gilbert, turned over the managerial ribbons to Umpire McDonald.

Letters to Senator White and Congressman Cannon, the latter being supposed to be now en rapport with the administration, have been frequent, and the Senator, during his few days' presence here last week, beseiged with callers. His unexpeeted departure, however, many others of the opportunity to whisper a word into his ear, and, as a onsequence, an additional avalanche of etters is again en route to Washington. Now that President Cleveland has tamed his "team of wild horses" and brought them into a state of utter submission on the silver question, politics are expected to look up. Those Demo-cratic Senators and Representatives who have opposed the President's policy will now gradually come back into the fold. He will need them to pass the tariff bill and the elections bill and numerous other bills, and each such

"Can't you or Glenalvin take some town up here, say Sacramento?"

Manager Vanderbeck thereupon held a conversation with himself as to his prospects in the East, and, as a result of his solileduy, decided to leave Callfornia out of his repertory hereafter. He spoke to Glenalvin, but that gentleman also decided that he had done with California baseball. Before, however, Manager Vanderbeck had communicated the final decisions of both himself and his right bower to Manager Gilbert, that gentleman again "blowed himself" for a 25-word message as follows:

"This town simply went wild yesterday. Big success of the Bostons morally certain. Sure your team would pay in Stockton or Sacramento. Why not try it? Answer."

Manager Vanderbeck then sorrowfully enlightened Manager Gilbert that neither Glenalvin nor himself care to go north. This evidently set Manager Gilbert thinking, and he conceived the idea of investing McDonald with the managerial toga, and next day sent the following:

That settled it. Arrangements were immediately begun, and yesterday conditions of them thought they saw their fallen hores revive. Knots of formerly bounded, which put the final "kibosh" on professional baseball in Los Angeles, for this year, at least.

This office seems to have become a bone of serious contention recently. At first it was thought that Gen. Mathews had a "dead cinch" on the place, but later developments have disclosed the fact that a new Richmond has entered the field. Everybody who knows what Gen. Mathews did for the party last year is not surprised that his candidacy is indorsed by Senator White, one of whose able lieutenants he was during the fight at Sacramento. Even Martin Marsh, who sacrificed himself by being defeated for Sheriff, gave up his later "post official" aspirations in favor of Gen. Mathews. But all this while a dark horse traveling on a still hunt was in the field, and many people will be surprised to read this morning that John A. Weir, a real-estate agent with an office in the Burdick Block, is a very prominent candidate.

Mr. Weir is a Democrat from way back. East Make weights of seal estate agent way hack. East Make weight is a permocrat from way hack. East Make weight is contention.

Mr. Weir is a Democrat from way back—East. He has made Los Angeles his home since some time before or during the boom, but was formerly a power in local politics in Detroit. While there he met such distinguished gentlemen as "Flowing Sideboards" Don M. Dickinson and Private Secretary Thurber. These gentlemen are now a power with the administration. Mr. Weir has also other friends in high position, and, when seen yesterday by the reporter, seemed confident of his ultimate success. Mr. Weir expressed his admirencess. choked off have been watching the cess. Mr. Weir expressed his admira-tion for Gen. Mathews, and magnani-mously stated that next to himself he would rather see Gen. Mathews get the mously stated that next to himself he would rather see Gen. Mathews get the office than any one else. Strange to say, the same reporter later saw Gen. Mathews, who likewise expressed his say, the same reporter later saw Gen. Mathews, who likewise expressed his admiration for Mr. Weir, and said that next to himself he would rather see Mr. Meir get it than any one else. But, stranger yet, the reporter still later as we martin Marsh, who also said that next to himself he would rather see Gen. Mathews get the office than any one else. Mr. Marsh did not know that Mr. Weir was a candidate, and further said that he (Marsh) was not an active candidate himself, in the full sense of the term. Gen. Mathews, from his conversation, seemed to share in the general belief that Mr. Marsh had retired from the race, and, from Mr. Weir's conversation, it seems that he also shares Gen. Mathews's bellef in this respect. Thus it appears that there is a sort of tacit misunderstanding all around, except on one point, and that is, that each candidate, next to himself. Queen Victoria Can Swim.

It is a notable fact, says an English paper, that not only can Queen Victoria swim, but so also can all her daughters. The Princess of Wales, all her three daughters, and the Princess May, are also swimmers. In fact, all the princesses royal are good swimmers and love the art in a greater or less degree. Perhaps the greatest of all lady swimmers is the Empress of Austria, who at one time reveled in all manner of natatory tricks. Although swimming among women is practically unknown in lazy Spain, the present Queen Regent can do all manner of feats in the water.

Candidate John E. Russell of Massa-chusetts seldom does his campaigning alone. His wife accompanies him on speaking tours, attends his public meet-ings, gives him valuable hints as to weak points in the enemy's harness when there is a joint debate, and hustles him into a warm overcoat and off to his hotel when the meeting is over.

A PECULIAR POSITION.

The San Francisco Chronicle of Mon-

The San Francisco Chronicle of Monday says:

"The failure of the Federal Senate to confirm the appointment of Judge Hornblower of New York, as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, is causing no end of speculation in this city. A prominent attorney declared yesterday that no appointment made to the Supreme Court in years had been fraught with so much importance to the entire country, and to California in particular.

"As a matter of fact, said the attorney, 'Judge Hornblower stands in a most peculiar position, and the confirmation of his appointment may lead to grave consequences. His elevation to the Supreme Court. One of these principles is involved in the great Chicago water-front case: the other in the decision of the court sustaining the Geary act, in which it was declared that the government in the exercise of its sayact, in which it was declared that the government, in the exercise of its sov-ereign power, not only to exclude aliens from American territory, but also to expel and deport any alien already here whose presence may be distasteful and undesirable.

whose presence may be distasteful and undesirable.

"In both of these cases it will be remembered that the court was very closely divided, five justices concurring in the opinions and four justices dissenting. One of the five justices was Justice Blatchford, now deceased, and Judge Hornblower has been named by the President as his successor. His vote in opposition to the views of Judge Blatchford would reverse the decision of the court in the Geary case, undoing all the needed legislation California has so long sought to secure, and also, by reversing the Chicago water-front case, deprive the citizens of Oakland of their certain thate to regain the miles of water front claimed by the Central and Southern Pacific Railroad companies." "The statements above quoted gain added weight from a deckaration said to have been made by T. H. REMARKABLE SALE

That has ever been witnessed in Southern California, and in fact the State of California, has followed. From 8 a.m. until 6 p.m every working day, has found the store crowded with anxious buyers. The public is satisfied that the creditors had but one object. to realize

Regardless of the Cost Value of Goods.

Money is what they wanted, in consequence thereof the people have purchased goods at Prices That no other House in the State Would or Could Afford to Make.

The plain and simple proposition is that the City of Paris Dry Goods Store has been FINANCIALLY WRECKED.

The "purchasing creditors" resorted to the only one way of realizing-that is to let the public have the goods at the Sheriff's prices-and in this way clean up the accounts. This sale will and must continue until all the goods are sold, and as has been repeatedly stated AT ANY PRICE. The manager has full authority and will continue to mark down, cut and slash away, not as against any firm or individual in this city, but simply to clear up the wreck and realize whatever cash that it will produce, this is the story in a nutshell.

Beginning today the SILK DEPARTMENT will be handled without gloves. Every lady in Los Angeles is kindly requested to look through the Silk Department of the City of Paris; it contains the latest novelties and finest makes of Silk Velvets and Plushes that can be found in any store on the Pacific Coast, excepting none. The stock is complete in all the new shades and fancy weaves, and will be sold at prices that will justify anybody in purchasing silk, velvet or plush for dresses or trimmings.

Institution from Doing Further Business-The Trial of May Meyers.

An aggregation of legal talent will be on hand this morning in Judge Clark's court to proceed with the hearing in the contest on the will of Luca Sciscich. The matter has been deferred from time to time for various reasons, but yesterday a jury was empaneled to try the issues raised, and the case will surely

When old man Sciscich, on July 15 Iast, fired two shots into the body of his wife while in a fit of jealousy, and then, turning the muzzle of the gun upon himself, sent a shot crashing through his own brain, producing almost instant death, he left no children surviving him. A little child, the son of his wife by a former husband, however, survived the ill-fated pair.
On July 18, before the remains of the dead man and his wife were hardly cold in the grave, John L. Sciscich, a nephew of Luca Sciscich, filed a petition to b granted letters of administration in the estate, or rather that J. J. Rodriquez be appointed special administrator. Wells, Monroe & Lee represented the

On July 20 Bishop Mora, through Mc-Lachlan & York,put in a petition, acompanied by a copy of a will dated April 3, 1888, which bequeathed the estate of the deceased, valued at $50,000, to the two sisters of Sciscich, residents of Austria.

It was asked that this will be ad-of Austria.

It was asked that this will be admitted to probate.

This was not all. On August 14, J. S. Pavkovich, represented by Henry T. Gage, J. Marion Brooks and L. S. Foley, presented and filed another petition, asking that, in behalf of his ward, the son of Mrs. Sciscich, the following will be probated:

"LOS ANGELES, CAL., July 14, 1893.

"I give all my property to son Paul. All other wills no good

"LUCA SCISCICH."

In the last-named petition it was stated that the original of the will had been lost, but that the above was a true and exact copy of it.

Now Messrs. Gage, Brooks and Foley are intersted, first in proving that the last will was genuine, or, in event of failure to do this, that Mrs. Sciscich survived her husband for at least a few moments, and so transmitted to her son the right of possession to one-half of the estate.

On the other hand, Wells, Monroe & Lee will urge that the will dated April 3, 1888, for probate, cutting off the infant stepson from any property, and McLachlan & York will present the claims of the nephew with a like end in view. Altogether the case is one of the mest complicated that has encumbered the Probate Court for many months.

The supervisors have before been troubled with this same question, and, in view of the fact that a protest signed by some one hundred and fifty officers and inmates of the home had been sent in against the granting of the license, it was necessary that both sides be heard on the question.

Luy, the applicant for the license, first testified that he had always kepit an orderly house at his place, which is known as "The Stumps," and that there was no particularly bad results noticeable among the veterans from its existence. Inmates of the home, it was true, had been found along the road leading therefrom in various stages of intoxication, but this had not been brought about by liquor being sold to them by him. There was a saloon on the grounds, he said, and, expressed it as his belief that the home authorities did not want his license granted for the reason that they were desirous of confining the sale of intoxicants to their bwn quarters. He went on to say that of late they had made an order forbidding fruit peddlers coming on the grounds, and had established a fruit stand of their own, where fruit was sold to the veterans at an advanced price.

Mai, Treichel, who represented the stand of their own, where fruit was sold to the veterans at an advanced price.

Maj. Treichel, who represented the governor of the home, denied that such charges had the slightest foundation in or were warranted by the facts of the case. The saloon on the grounds, he said, was established by order of the board of managers, and the proceeds from it went into the home fund. The fruit stand had been thought necessary in order to keep the grounds clear of cores and peel of apples, etc., which could not be done if peddlers were allowed to sell about the home indiscriminately.

J. A. D'Arcy, an officer of the home, corroborated the statements of Maj. Treichel, and added that he thought the saloon at "The Stumps" was a great detriment. The majority of the veterans were feeble, and not possessed of the necessary judgment, and when they went down to the saloon they were apt to become intoxicated and unable to walk back.

The matter was first ordered postponed until the afternoon, when the application was denied.

A few minor routine matters were brought up and disposed of, the board finally adjourning at 2:30 o'clock.

It was a decidedly healthy stock market in New York today, and the volume of business, though lighter than for the past

PORT OF SAN PEDRO.

The following are the arrivale and departures at the port for the past twenty-four hours:

Arrivals—None.
Departures—Nov. 1, schooner Roy Summers, Olson, for San Francisce, in ballast; steamer Caspar, Anfindsen, for San Francisco, via Hueneme.

Tides, Nov. 2, 1883—High water, 5:28 a.m. and 4:35, p.m.; low water, 11:38 a.m. and 11:18 p.m.

Much complaint has been received the Much complaint has been received the past few nights in reference to the intense darkness prevailing about town at or near midnight for about an hour after the electric lights are turned off. The moon is supposed to be up and busy at that time, but, as a matter of fact, does not get up sufficiently high to penetrate the night air until nearly an hour later.

to penetrate the night air until nearly an hour later.

As a result of this state of affairs, the law-abiding people who have to be about town at that hour are put to great inconvenience. It is even said that the robbers in the "hold-up" business would prefer to have a little more light, as any one of them is very likely by a slight error, to endeavor to go through some police sergeant, who might be a little too much for him.

Convicted of Adultery.

The adultery case against John L. Green was concluded in Justice Austin's Green was concluded in Justice Austin's court yesterday morning. A number of witnesses for the prosecution were examined, and it was brought out in the testimony that Green had been living at the house of a Mrs. Hopkinson with a woman he represented to be his wife. The defense did not offer any testimony, and did not cross-examine the witnesses.

After argument, the case was submitted to the jurk, and that body, after being out for about ten minutes, brought in a werdict of guilty. Green was ordered to appear tomorrow for sentence.

Consul Germain.

Eugene Germain, the recently-ap-cinted consul to Zurich, Switzerland, pointed consul to Zurich, Switzerland, will start for his post of duty on the 15th of this month. Mr. Germain had been granted a sufficient leave of absence by the State Department to enable him to arrange his business affairs previous to his going to Switzerland. He has these matters now complete, and will leave on the day mentioned for Washington, to receive his consular instructions.

In Justice Seaman's court yesterday Richard Price, the colored burglar arrested two or three days ago by Detectives Benson and Marsh, was examined and ordered held for the Superior Court, with ball fixed in the sum of $1000.

Harold Vivian, the young lad brought in the night before for malicious mis-n the night before for malicious mis-chief, was discharged from custody, no complaint being filed against him.

A Card.

I herewith respectfully inform the public and my numerous patrons that, after an active practice of forty-seven years, I have transferred my hairdressing establishment, at Nos. 224-226 West Second street, to my son, F. Neubauer, who will he future carry on the business and assume all responsibilities, from date.

While thanking the public and my friends and customers for their former liberal patronage, I trust that the same good will shall be extended to my successor, who is well qualified to fill my position. However, for the present, I may still be found at the old address.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH

The Sanitary Condition of the Cudahy Packing-house.

All Improvements That are Possible Have Been Made—Complaint Against a Mas-ter Plumber—The Sprinkling Hydrants.

The Board of Health met yesterday fternoon, Drs. Gillingham and Kurtz and Mayor Rowan being present.

A communication from the City Council, in reference to a petition from the California Vinegar and Pickle Works, for permission to construct a private sewer, was referred to the Health Officer, to act in conjunction with the Sewer Committee of the Council.

A petition from David Gastl, for per ssion to place a water trough in front of his premises, at No. 1538 San Fernando street, as referred from the City. Council, was read. On the statement that such troughs were likely to prove a means of communicating glanders and other contagious diseases among horses, the petition was filed.

A communication from William D. Babcock and others, living near Dodd & O'Gara's camp, between Seventh and Eighth streets and Alvarado and Provi-

Eighth streets and Alvarado and Providence streets, complaining about the nuisance and confusion incident to the place, and also about its unsanitary condition, was referred back to the City Council, from which body it had been referred, with the information that the portion of the complaint referring to sanitary conditions had been attended to.

A petition from Ira Tilden and others complaining of the nuisance caused by a pool of stagnant water on the south side of Bartlett street, between Beaudry avenue and Centennial street, as referred from the City Council, was considered. The communication was referred to the Council, with the information that an effort had been made to ascertain the cause of the nuisance, and that if the reservoir be cemented the true cause of the trouble could receive tion that an effort had been made to ascertain the cause of the nuisance, and that if the reservoir be cemented the true cause of the trouble could undoubtedly be found.

The Health Officer reported as follows in reference to the sanitary condition of the Cudahy packing-house:

"I desire to say that such changes have been made as seemed practicable under the circumstances, without interfering with the proper workings of the business. The pigs have been removed from the uncemented pen and a wire guaze gate; for the purpose of preventing the flow of the solids into the river has been placed in the ditch, which carries the waste from the pens where the pigs at present time are kept.

"As to the odors arising from the trying out of lard, boiling of livers, blood, etc.. I have been unable to make any suggestions toward sanitary improvements."

The report was filed.

A comunication from G. Brereton, Bridge House. Portarlington Kings

A comunication from G. Brereton, Bridge House, Portarlington, Kings county, Ireland, in reference to the prevention of cholera, was referred to the Health Officer.

Dr. Kurtz moved that the Health Officer be bettered. Dr. Kurtz moved that the Health Officer be instructed to appear before the Council and state to that body that the sprinkling hydrants at present in use in the city was an intolerable nuisance and that stopcocks should be used instead. Adopted.

Fruit-growers Will Meet Today to Perfect Organization.

Death of an Estimable Woman-Society Jot-tings-Various Items of Local Interest - Personal Notes and Brevities.

An important meeting will be held a o'clock this (Thursday) afternoon at the Board of Trade rooms for the purpose of organizing a permanent associ ation of fruit-growers in this district. The subject has been agitated for weeks ast. Plans of organization have been prepared and adopted by representative fruit men, but organization has not effeced in accordance therewith, for the reason that a satisfactory numper of growers have not yet manifested important one, and the orchardists who ave hitherto been able to make no money out of each season's yield will do money out of each season's yield will do well to attend today's meeting. The secret of the grower's success, without doubt, lies in perfect organization, as provided in the by-laws already agreed upon. The other fruit-growing sections of the southern part of the State have almost unanimously combined in such organization. Pasadena had better do likewise, or she will undoubtedly be left out in the cold.

BELLIANT SOCIAL EVENT

BRILLIANT SOCIAL EVENT. The society editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer devotes considerable space in brilliant event in which Pasadenians will be generally interested. The open-ing paragraph reads: "A social even ing paragraph reads: which brought together a brillian company of guests from Philadelphia company of guests from Philadelphia. New York. Baltimore and, Washingtor was a reception given by Col. and Mrs G. G. Green at their Woodbury resi-dence last Tuesday evening in honor of the recent marriage of their son, Harry Brown Green. The mansion was taste-fully decorated in pink, and adorned with plants and blooming flowers. After the reception a dance was given hour on a special train. The bride is charming girl and well known in Balti-more society. Col. Green's special car brought a number of guests from Balti-more." Then follows a long list of guests. The Constitution, a Woodbury paper, contains an extended account of paper, contains an extended account of the same event, which is referred to as one of the most elaborate affairs that has ever been given in that town. The Constitution also gives the pleasing in-telligence that Col. and Mrs. Green and family will probably leave for Pasa-dena in their private car about Novem-ber 15.

THE LADIES ENTERTAIN. A very pleasnt entertainment oc Hall. Mrs. D. I. Holt, chairman of the Ladies' Central Committee, with a corps of ladies, entertained the committees of the Y.M.C.A. at tea. At 6:30 o'clock the tables were spread and the members of the committee, with the ladies and some of the ministers, took their places around the tables to the number of sixty-four. The hall had been previously decorated with flowers and vines, and, with the tables well filled with choice viands, all were prepared to do justice to the good things before them. At the close of the supper General Secretary George Taylor made some remarks, expounding the various duties of the committees. The Music Committee arranged a pleasant hour for singing. Miss Brown sang a solo, "When the Mists Have Rolled Away." The president, Dr. F. Grinnel, called upon the committees to arrange in classes to outline their work for the year. The Ladies' Committee held a short business session to elect delegates for the State convention at Stockton, which convenes on November 8. The following delegates were elected: Mrs. D. I. Holt, Mrs. L. W. Wheeler, Mrs. F. Grinnell, Miss Belle Duncan, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. Tilman Hobson.

DEATH OF MRS. LINCOLN. Eliza T. M. Lincoln, wife of J. D. Lin-coln, president of the Pasadena National Bank, died Tuesday evening of consumption at her home on East Colorado street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln came to Pasaorado street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln came to Pasadena several years ago for the benefit of the latter's health. They had spent several previous winters in Florida without beneficial result, and the climate of Southern California was tried as a last resort. Although Mrs. Lincoln apparently gained in health here, the dread disease had advinced too far to be overcome. It was only recently that she was confined to the house, and death resulted directly from hemorrhages of the lungs.

Mrs. Lincoln was a woman of beautiful character and superior intellectual attainments, and her death will be sincerely deplored by all who knew her, while the sympathy of the community will go out to her grief-stricken husband. The time of the funeral will be anounced tomorrow.

SAN BERNARDINO.

Given the Contents of a Double-barreled Shotgun at Short Range-Suit for Damages - The Pierce Trial-Brevities

That San Bernardino has anothe plucky woman, in the person of Mrs. O. A. Davis, was demonstrated on Tuesday evening, when a burglar entered the house, where she was her child. It was at her home on I street, and Mrs. Davis was lying upon the bed, at 8 o'clock, putting the baby to sleep, when she thought she heard a noise in the direction of the kitchen. Rising hastily, she picked up a double-barreled shotgun, and went noiselessly to the kitchen. The lock to the out side kitchen-door was out of order, and a prop had been placed against the door-knob upon the inside to fasten it. Just as she stepped inside the kitchen the prop slipped and fell from the pressure outside, and the door pressure outside, and the door swung wide open and a man stood in the doorway. Mrs. Davis hastily cocked the gun, raised it, and fired, discharging a load of No. 8 shot point blank at him. The man turned and fied, and no trace of him has been seen since. In gaining entrance to the house the door in the lattice about the back porch had been opened, and the screen-door propped back in order to make retreat as free from obstruction as possible. That he was hit by the shot seems certain, as no shot struck the seems certain, as no shot struck the door, and but a few struck the wood beyond. The other barrel was loaded with buckshot.

RIALTO WILL HAVE WATER. A voluminous document was filed with the County Recorder on Wednesday, it being an agreement between the Semi-tropic Land and Water Company and the Rialto Irrigation District, according to which the former is to furnish to the latter 301½ inches of water from what is known as the Meeks Mill property, and 348½ inches from the Lord place, making a total of 650 inches; also, to prepare for the distribution of the water by the construction of pipe-lines and laterals; the work to be done according to plans and specifications on file, and completed by June 1, 1896, the same to be paid for by, the Rialto Irrigation District bonds yet unsold.

REDLANDS.

REDLANDS.

Several have suggested that it would be a good idea for the city of Redlands to issue bonds for a city hall and purchase the new Y.M.C.A. building. The subscribers to the building fund for this big structure did not suspect when they put their name upon the paper about a year ago that such a financial depression was about to befall this country, and they now find it difficult to fulfill their obligations with the Y.M. C.A. people. It is, in fact, impossible for some of them to pay their subscriptions. In consequence of this the fine building is moving but slowly toward completion, and is not yet under roof. It is said that nothing for the present will be done after it is roofed over, unless a part of the building can be leased to the city for city hall purposes. It is an imposing structure, occupying the finest location in Redlands for a city hall. The trustees have to lease new quarters at once, and it will be but a short time before a city hall building will be demanded. The taxpayers may, some of them, object to more bonds, just now, and the Y.M. C.A. may not wish the building taken off their hands, but the matter is worth considering.

The circus was here Tuesday, but it found few suckers in this city. Since the smoke of the battle has rolled away around the thriving little city of Chino, a glance at the boom sale will interest Times readers. It is estimated that fully two thousand people crowded into the town, but none of the visitors bought any town lots or acreage. This latter property sold exclusively and in ten-acre tracts. Five hundred acres were disposed of at prices ranging from $92.50 to $205 per acre. In the aggregate the amount was about $70,000. The farmers around Chino bought the land, as they say they know what can be done with it. The politicians were there, and said if the people knew what Cleveland was going to do with the sugar bounty, the property would bring twice the money. The land was all adjacent to the town property would bring twice the money. The land was all adjacent to the town site. One man, Mr. Shaeffer, bought forty acres, for which he paid $125 per acre. It is said the land only brought about half what the owner asked for it at private sale. The real estate men of Pomona and Ontario express the opinion that the land brought good prices.

Proceedings of the City Council-Sidewalks Ordered.

All further doubt as to the laying of bituminous rock sidewalks has been dispelled by the action of the City Council at Tuesday evening's session. The clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for laying a walk on Main street, from First to Holt. The bids will be opened next Tuesday evening, and the work will be begun immediately afterward. It is stated that it is the intention of the Council to have a good deal rhore of this work done before the winter rains set in.

Other work before the Council was a petition from T. D. Leslie and others, requesting that the alley in block 127 be straightened. The neighbors can't agree as to lines, and the request was referred to the Street Committee.

A petition was also received from the for bids for laying a walk on Main street, from First to Holt. The bids referred to the Street Committee.

A petition was also received from the Southern California Manufacturing Company and Susan L. Mills, requesting that the street running through the lot just south of the pipe-works, and between the pipe-works and the cannery, be closed. The street runs north and south. The request was also referred to the Street Committee, but it is likely the request will be refused, as the impression prevailed that Mrs. Mills would then practically own the street.

Five hundred pamphlets were ordered printed, said pamphlets to contain the ordinances and resolutions of the Council. There were two bids in, one from the Progress for $1.16 per page, and the other from the Pomona Weekly Times for $1.15. The bid was awarded to the lowest bidder.

He was taken before Justice Free-man Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and pleaded guilty to the charge against him. He stated that he filled but the check, signed a name to it, and passed it to Mrs. Highle for the purpose of beating her out of his board bill. The watch he secured of Thomas Walmsley of Orange has been leaded bill. The watch he secured of Thomas Walmsley of Orange has been located in Colton, and will no doubt be secured today. There are half a dozen or more serious charges against this young man at Ontario and a number in Los Angeles and other points in Southern California, but this county has a sure case against him, and will, no doubt, from his own admission, send him to the State's prison for a term of years. HALLOWE'EN.

It was not difficult, after a walk down the street in Santa Ana early Wednesday morning, to remember that the previous evening had been celebrated as Hallowe'en. or All Saints' day, in the usual manner. Gates were missing, and so were the accustomed signs in front of the business houses, to a greater or less extent. A big sulky plow was jam up against Posener's fancy store to take the place of the glass case of miscellaneous articles which had been removed to the front door of a Fourth-street saloon. Several cases of-bottles in front of Justice of the Peace Humphrey's office Indicated that he, perhaps, was thinking of starting a wholesale drug-house. There had been a general change of movable material during the night, and the fellow was fortunate, indeed, who did not have to chase down a stray sign or some other movable article in the early morning hours.

The Ladles' Guild of the Episcopal Church gave a very pleasant entertainment in Neill's Hall. In the early part of the evening a musical and literary programme was rendered, after which games were indulged in, refreshments were served, and, at a later hour, the floor was cleared for the merry dancers. At the home of Miss Maud Wilkes on East First street. Miss Happy Smith and Miss Wilkes entertained a number of their friends at all kinds of games suitable to the proper celebration of the evening, and, therefore, the mysteries of the future were laid bare to all who sought to be enlightened. Refreshments were served, during which Miss Jessie Walker discovered in her cake a pretty ring, while Virgil Ross was surprised to find imbedded in his cake a perfect mitten. The following ladles and gentlemen were present: Misses Mary McChain, Jessie Walker, Ella and May Congdon, Nora Cooper, Sara and Bessie Mayne, Lillie Winbigler, Maggie Lindsey, Happy Smith, Maud Wilkes, and Messrs. Robert Northup, Alan Smith, Horace Fine, T. C. Flourney, Virgil Ross, Will Hilliker, George Kelly, Charles Wilkinson, Lyford Ambrose, Milo Cook, Abner Wood, Clif Baker.

BOWERS BOUND OVER.

BOWERS BOUND OVER. James W. Bowers, the young barber from Norwalk, was bound over on from Norwalk, was bound over on Wednesday to appear before the Su-perior Court to answer to the charge of burgiarizing T. G. Drury's barber-shop on the night of October 16 of about $75 or $100 worth of razors, clippers and other barber words. Bayers electioned 375 or $100 worth of razors, clippers and other barber goods. Bowers claimed Monday that he would have a witness in court Tuesday to testify that he saw Bowers purchase the stolen goods of a stranger, who represented himself to be a barber broke, who wanted to "soak" his tools, but the witness referred to, when he was brought into court, did not remember anything about that or any other transaction of a like nature, taking place in the shop at Norwalk at the time specified. The young man's mother testified that her. son came to the house on the day in question, from his shop, and asked for $2$, stating at the time that he wanted the money to finish paying for some tools that he had just purchased from a man.

At the conclusion of the evidence the case was submitted without argument and Jusice Humphreys immediately and would be and Justee Humphreys limitately, mounced that the young man would be held to appear before the Superior Court in the sum of $1000, in default of which he should go to jail.
